Harvard University
Department of Molecular & Cellular Biology
Faculty of Arts & Sciences

We are seeking a dynamic and highly interactive scientist with a love of biology to join our Department in the position of Scientific Director. The Scientific Director will play a key role in the development and implementation of multiple research and educational projects that support the faculty and our departmental and interdepartmental goals. You will join our efforts in faculty recruitment, outreach, education, fundraising, scientific planning, and events such as retreats and seminar series.

The successful candidate needs to have a Ph.D. in biological or biomedical sciences, as well as outstanding interpersonal, writing and communication skills. You must be outgoing, engaging, and energetic and help foster a culture that is interactive, supportive and diverse.

If you are interested in an exciting and rewarding scientific career among some of the world’s best biologists, please submit, by December 2, 2014, a cover letter, CV and 3 letters of recommendation to Susan Foster, Executive Director of Molecular & Cellular Biology at foster@mcb.harvard.edu. You are also required to apply online at:

[link here]

Harvard University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, gender, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.